DEFINITIONS

- THEATRE: Chairs are arranged in rows facing the main table, where the stage or speaker is located. This setup maximizes the use of space in the meeting room. The theater layout works well when the audience needs to take minimal notes.
- CLASSROOM: Tables are arranged in rows with 2 or 3 chairs each and facing the front of the room, providing each person with enough space to take notes.
- U-SHAPE: Tables are placed in a rectangular outline with an open space in the center (U-shape). Chairs are positioned on the outer side of the tables.
- BANQUET: Round tables with 8 or 10 chairs. This setup is used when food and beverage services are provided.
- COCKTAIL: A standing social event where drinks and appetizers are served. The food is designed to encourage movement and interaction among participants. High tables are placed throughout the room with few or no chairs. Some chairs may be positioned along the room's edges. This setup can precede a formal meal.
- ROUND TABLE: This setup can be used with 8 or 10 chairs or in a half-moon arrangement with 6 chairs, typically used for academic sessions without food and beverages.
- CHEVRON: Seating or tables are arranged in angled rows forming a V-shape, separated by a central aisle, focusing attention on the main table or speaker.
